Homage To Newton by Salvador Dali

📍 UOB Plaza Atrium

In the 17th century, Sir Isaac Newton discovered the law of gravity. Legend tells us that the origin of this most important and fundamental physical law was initiated by the falling of an apple, represented in the present work by the ball falling from the right hand.

Salvador Dali, one of the most important surrealist artists, takes the liberty to go even further in paying homage to Newton by opening up the torso of the figure and suspending the heart to indicate "open-heartedness". The open head represents an "open-mind". These are two necessary qualities for the discovery of important natural laws as well as for success of all human endeavours.

Vitalità by Anna Chiara Spellini

📍 Outside UOB Plaza, along Singapore River

Vitalità reflects the vital energy of the universe known as 'qi'. Embodying the 'qi' in her visceral line of this sculpture, Anna Chiara Spellini has endowed the form of Vitalità with the vigour of being ready to move upward and forward. Commissioned by UOB, and part of the UOB Art Collection, Vitalità is a life force that creates newness, growth, good fortune and abundance for all.

Bird by Fernando Botero

📍 Outside UOB Plaza, along Singapore River

The bird is traditionally associated with peace and serenity. This three-dimensional Bird by Botero also signifies the joy of living and the power of optimism.

Botero's sculpture allows one the pleasure of caressing reality. There is a sensual complicity that the artist has with his creation which is shared with the public.

3 PARKROYAL COLLECTION Marina Bay

Art exhibition at PARKROYAL COLLECTION Marina Bay

📍 PARKROYAL COLLECTION Marina Bay, 6 Raffles Boulevard, Level 5, Public Art Space

Plein-air with Nature by Wong Hai

An accomplished artist, Wong Hai can expertly capture both cityscape and nature scenes in his artworks. He enjoys painting plein-air, which is the act of painting outdoors in the natural environment, as it fills him with energy. In this exhibition, we step into his delicate observations of the flora and fauna in Singapore, from the heartlands at neighbourhood parks to the wildlife at Sungei Buloh Wetland Reserves.

Birds and Blooms by Tang Juey Lee

The late Tang Juey Lee is known as the painter of orchids due to the thousands of orchid paintings that he had completed. Often, he adds birds into his art pieces, creating delightful works on Chinese rice paper - through his skilful blend of fine brushwork in Chinese ink paintings with vibrant watercolour.

📅 15 April to 15 July 2023

Pan Pacific Singapore 4

Art exhibition at Pan Pacific Singapore

📍 Pan Pacific Singapore, 7 Raffles Boulevard, Singapore 039595, Level 2, Public Art Space

RE/EMERGENCE by Erica Wee

A self-taught artist, Erica Wee aims to capture the realistic nature of her subjects and works mainly with acrylic and oil. RE/EMERGENCE is Erica's first solo exhibition, having lived overseas for the past 15 years and only returned to Singapore last year. The exhibition marks not only her re-emergence back onto the Singapore art scene, but also reveals how living abroad has contributed to her artistic growth and maturity.
